

I want to register my opposition to the media consolidation of ownership now under consideration at the FCC. We ordinary folk without political agendas to enact, want and need the kind of diversity which can only exist through limited ownership. The public sees how Murdoch controlled Fox network is an arm of the Bush administration and part and parcel of undercutting dissent of any kind against that administration or other Republican conservative interest. Cannot we have something that is not dominated by the ideologues and their communication proponents. Please leave something for the ordinary people of this country and not let the wealthy, industrial-business complex have all the advantage in terms of what we see and hear as a public. Let public interest reign supreme for once.
